PLANTS IN CONTAINERS

Our evergreens raised in containers have massive root systems which keep losses to less than 1%. The cans are easy to care for in the sales yard. No need for mulching them. Just set them on the ground or pavement and water them regularly. No mess when you sell them either. Just set them on the floor or in the trunk of your customers car.

The advantages of container grown stock are so numerous for grower, retailer, and consumer that we predict its universal use in this country within this generation.
